WESTERN LEAGUE GAINING STRENGTH.

President Whitfield Expects to Announce Complete Circuit Within Short Time.

M'ALEER IS AFTER M'CORMICK.

Former Chicago Shortstop, Turned Down by Hart, Said to Have Accepted St. Louis Terms-Baseball Gossip.

James Whitfield of Kansas City, the president of the Western Baseball League. was in the city between trains yesterday, departing last night on business connected with his organization, which is waging a merry battle with the American Association for supremacy in minor league baseball in the West. Whitfield is still as ardent a baseball advocate as he was in the days when many of the present fans were in swadding clothes. He is confident that the Western League will begin the season with a strong circuit and the best of minor league talent on its teams.

"The Western League is not in the habit of handing out hot air," said Whitfield yesterday, discussing the prospect in the Western League, "and in that one respect the Barry McCormick, the ex-Orphan, will be seen in a St. Louis American Léague uniform next season. Though left out in the cold by James A. Hart, McCormick's days of usefulness are not over by any means, and McAleer has seized an opportunity to strengthen his team. McAleer went up to Chicago yesterday from Youngston, O., and negotiations were at once started for the services of the big fellow, Terms were practically decided on, and McCormick is expected to sign a contract at once. He probably will be placed on third base, which was the only place of uncertain strength on the team, as recently announced by McAleer, Friel, the Milwaukoe player, had been slated to cover bag No. 3, but McAleer has been on the lookout for material that would class in with Bobby Wallace. McCormick was a member of the Chicago team for several years, and was regarded as a steady, though not a particularly, bifilliant, player. His stick work has always been fair.

All doubt has been removed concerning where Davy Jones would play next year. Jones has written McAleer, stating that he has received a letter from Jim Hart saying that he (Jones) is free to play with Bt. Louis. All of which hears out the assertion made by Mr. Hedges that the Chicago contract signed by Jones was only an optional document.

Block to Fight Stevenson.

George Block and Andy Stevenson will fight be-fore the St. Louis Rowing Club Sunday afternoon, February E., at catch weights, with Mal Poyle as referee. As a preliminary, a bout will prob-ably be put on between Tony Patara and Alec Schenck, if the two can come together on the weight question.

In discussing the suggestions made at Buffalo for changes in the playing rules, McAlcer takes a sly dig at "Mugsy" McGraw, He says: "I think the new rules are not as bad as most of the reports make them out to be. The game has new angels each year, and in order to keep up with the new ideas, the laws should be changed to keep up with the times. It is necessary to find some way of keepirg a player like McGraw within bounds."

The suggestions for changes in playing ties made at the Buffalo conference have rought out considerable criticism. Says Ed Grillo in the Cincinnati Commercial

Tribune:

"It is a fortunate thing for baseball that the men who are now conferring in Buffalo have not been vested with the power to change the playing rules and that they can go no further than suggest changes. If these suggestions are unfortunate enough to be submitted to some men they will never be anything but suggestions—that is a certainty. The gentlemen at Buffalo seem to be under the impression that their duty is to complicate the game of baseball. If their suggestions on the rules are adopted it will be four years before any one can familiarize himself with the rules of the game. People do not support baseball for the purpose of wreeking their minds in an effort to understand the game. Baseball is a pastime, and the freer it is kept from mystery the better it can be enjoyed. The gentlemen at Buffalo are arranging a puzzle game. If the representatives in conference had gone to Buffalo of their own free will they should not be interfered with; but, since at least a majority of them were sent by organizations or clubs, they should be asked to return home at once. Baseball looks none too bright, but if all the changes shicked are being made in the rules by the It is a fortunate thing for baseball that

WILL FIGHT TO-NIGHT.

Men Will Meet Before the West to-night at the West End Club in their much-talked-of battle, at 176 pounds, the bout being scheduled to go fifteen rounds. The occasion will be the fourth meeting of the men, their previous battles having resalted in two twenty-round draws and one decision by a narrow margin. Both men have expressed their intention of having the present contest settle superiority decisively one way or the other.

As a preliminary to the main go, Jack Dunleavy will meet Charley Cornwall in a ten-round bout, at 142 pounds, both fighters being well known locally in the wester-weight division. Dunleavy has a reputation as a counter fielder and has described in the content of the counter fields of as a coming fighter, and has shown to advantage in several bouts in the last year, while Cornwall is just beginning his career as a professional. He has fought several smateur bouts at the local rowing clubs, and has appeared in one or two cities, and has appeared in one or two minor professional affairs.

Callahan will be seconded by his manager, Billy Roche, Rice will be seconded by C. H. Thompson, his manager, by Pat Early and by Tony Patara, Early has served as sparring partner for Rice in his training preparation in the last week, Joe Stewart will referee both fights of the exempter.

New York Light Weight.

Chicago, Ili., Feb. 12.—Danny Duane, the New York lightweight, was knocked out tonight at the Aeme Club by Otto Sicioff of Chicago. Duane received his quietus but a minute before the end of the contest. The first five rounds were rather tame, helther man exerting himself to any great extent. When they came together in the last round both started out in earnest. In one of the mixups that followed Duane was sent to the floor by a right swing. He got up groggy, and before he could recover Sicioff connected with another swing that put the New Yorker out.

In the preliminary Harry Johnson of Pittsburg was knocked out by "Kid" Faffiner in four rounds. Farmer is only a beginner and was substituted for Chirence Forbes, who was unable to meet Johnson on account of an injured hand.

that McGovern will not relife even should be meet defeat.

One question rather difficult to answer just at oresent is just what is the featherweight limit. Young Corbett has announced that all fights for his title must be at 125 pounds, and most claimants for the championshio tip the grales in the neighborhood of this figure. If successive battles for the title are fought at 125 pounds, it is hard to see when the weight will be shifted back to the original figure.

Originally, the feather-weight limit was 115 pounds in the professional ring, and this weight is still considered the featherweight limit under the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union. The professional scale was raised, however first to 115 neumis and then to 122 pounds, where it remained for years, and was accepted as the true feather-weight limit.

McGovern agreed to fight for his title at 125 pounds and lost. His conquerer states that future hattles with him must be at that figure. As none of the present challengers for the title, with the exception of Abe Attell, would be able to do much below 124, it 's likely that the raise in the limit while he permanent.

If the new boxing protective association, about which so much is heard, ever assumes control of the sport, it will probably fix the limits for the various classes immovably, and will resulte the graduation into a higher class of a puglist outgrowing his own class. This state of affairs would certainly be better than an elastic scale which increases in weight with the holder of the title.

ERNE SAYS BOUT WAS FIXED.

Became Suspicions That Coup Was Under Cover. REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Feb. 12.-Frank Erne, who, without notice, declared off his match with Gans, en Monday night, in Philadelphia, this morning confessed that the bout was "fixed."
The light-weight champion said that it was agreed that there must be no knock-out. They were to box six fast rounds.
A few days before the fight was scheduled Erne asked Gans to post $1,000 as a guarantee that he would not hit hard enough to score a knock-out. This the negro refused to do.

The next day Erne learned that Hereford and his friends were trying to bet 5 to 3 that Gans would score a knock-out. He avers that Hereford was planning a big coup. This could easily have been accompilshed, says Erne, as he would have taken chances in the ring, believing that Gans would stand by the agreement not to try for a knock-out.

for the students over the alumni. Absolutely every question relating to athletics at the university will be referred to this committee. Its organization is approved of by President Hadley, but the pion has yet to be submitted to the undergraduates for ratification.

It is possible that the captains as well as the managers will be included on the committee. The committee has been talked of at Vale for months, and its organization was only a matter of time. It had nothing to do with the present disturbance with Harvard. Its formation, however, removes the oft-repeated claim of the Harvard athletic leaders that they kne w of no stable athletic organization at Yale with which to treat when they wanted to hold an athletic conference.

W. H. Sigourney, the San Francisco amateur billiardist, played a very good game, the fourth of his series of six, during the afternoon. His opponent was Charles S. Norris, formerly champion of the Chicago Athletic Association, but now champion of the Knickerbocker Club, where the tournament is being held. The Pacific Coast champion was in much better form than when he met John A. Hendrick, the former champion of Cennecticut, last night, an some of his work was of a gilt-edged character.
